DOVE Center seeks volunteer committee and board members

ST.GEORGE, UTAH – DOVE Center is seeking enthusiastic volunteers for their Board of Directors as well as for various other committees.

DOVE is the primary service provider for survivors of domestic abuse and sexual assault in Washington county. Their services include emergency shelter, transitional housing, counseling, group therapy, hospital advocacy and court advocacy, among many others.

The organization is now seeking applicants for their Board of Directors, which comes with a three year commitment and has openings available as soon as July 1, 2019.

Board members are actively engaged in fundraising, awareness and outreach activities of the agency. The board is responsible for setting the mission, strategy and goals of the organization as well as for assuring sound fiduciary oversight.

“As we continue to grow so does our reliance on outside support in various capacities,” Ruth Weniger, President of the Board of Directors said. “We welcome those with a passion for our mission and the ability to help.”

DOVE Center committees also seeking active participants are Finance, Marketing and Communications, Legislative, Development and Education.

The non-profit agency relies on the expertise of volunteer committee members to help advance efforts and efficiency in all of the above fields.

“I was glad to hop on the opportunity to get involved and always feel like my input is valued and appreciated,” Jon Bacon, VP of Marketing for SureCall, and a volunteer member on the DOVE Marketing and Communications committee, said. “I feel good knowing I am contributing to making a change in my community, but especially for the survivors who are so deserving of a better future.”

For more information regarding the DOVE Board of Directors or any of its committees, please email Board President Ruth Weniger at ruth@poweredbystrategy.com; or Board Vice President Natalie Ashby at ashbytn@yahoo.com.
